TUESDAY TIDBITS - March 26, 2019

The last couple of weeks we've received a number of samples from the wonderful manufacturers we work with. For those of us working in the product development area, I think it always seems like your birthday, no matter what time of year the samples roll in. I am sure this is true whether you are the artist, the agent or the product development manager.

This prompted us to look back over recent months and share with you a few samples of what some of our wonderful partners and their artisans produced using our artist's images. Hope you'll indulge us this little show and tell. If you would like to work with any of the talented artists at ADG, we would love to hear from you. We will make sure to provide you with great support for your next product line.

Happy Creating,
