HOUSTON PREVIEW - October 23, 2019

Where is your Happy Place? I have been giving some thought to this lately. It seems we are constantly being surrounded by depressing news, world and local events, even the last few days of weather in our area has been depressing. But things are changing, I am seeing leaves change color, I am refreshed by college visits with my oldest and our team made it to the World Series. I have been spending more and more time in places that make me happy and, like so many of you reading this article I find I am most happy when surrounded by art, color, design and creative people. Currently we at ADG are preparing to attend the International Quilt Market in Houston, Texas. The artists we represent have created some exciting, beautiful work to brighten 2020 and we are looking forward to sharing this. Take a quick look at highlights of this work and let's talk about how these designs can be adapted to your special market needs.

Together we can help turn 2020 into a Happy Place for all. Here are a few new works to make your products stand out. We look forward to sharing some time with those of you who will be in Houston soon.
