TUESDAY TIDBITS - September 24, 2019

As the seasons are changing...

As I begin this edition of Tuesday Tidbits I noticed that the last bi-weekly issue has been a while. Where has the time gone? We had been sending this to you bi-weekly, but like all of you, things got pretty busy. Mary Ann has been traveling out of the country (in Australia, among other places - pretty cool, huh!) and I've been holding down the fort here (with the exception of the first college visit with my oldest daughter - it can't be that time already, can it?) and, of course, our group of artists have been busy creating new collections. Things are settling back down now and we are getting back on track with Tuesday Tidbits.

As you are working on products for the next season, we wonder, what might be the inspiration for the next group of styles and products we will be seeing and hearing about. The Olympic Games will be held soon in Japan, will this inspire bright colorways, maybe led by sporting apparel. Or, maybe it will inspire Japanese designs for a variety of products? Space exploration is being discussed again and maybe this may lead us into space inspired designs.

On her extended trip to Australia, Mary Ann kept her eyes open for new and different ideas. She noticed animal prints were shown in a whole bunch of different colors and unusual styles. They were a big stretch and fun to see. The large scale flower motifs mentioned in our last issue were turning up in many of the major retailers. And the naturals are coming on strong, who doesn't need a break from the fast paced electronic world we are living in?

This newsletter will be brief as we are just sharing some of the newest collections our artists have created. We will be back to focusing on upcoming trends and other items of interest next issue, hope you had a great summer. DON'T FORGET TO HOP OVER TO OUR SITE TO CHECK OUT WHAT'S NEW!!
